Prompt:

Describe a person in the news who you want to meet. You should say:

Who this person is

Where you knew him/her

What he/she is like

and explain why you want to meet him/her

Okay, to start things off, the person I'd most like to meet in the news would definitely be Ruth Bader Ginsburg, otherwise known as "The Notorious RBG." I'm sure that name at least sounds familiar to you. She's been such an important person and icon to so many Americans in recent years. Anyway, Ruth Bader Ginsburg is one of the nine Supreme Court Justices, and she's had a huge impact on American politics.

Moving on to the subject of how I know her, well, first of all, she's all over the news, and she's well-known for her expression "I dissent." That is, she consistently disagrees with injustice in Supreme Court cases and stands up for fair and equal treatment. The first time I found out about her, though, was from watching a documentary called RBG. The documentary was about her life and journey to become a Supreme Court Justice, and it inspired me to learn more about her.

Progressing to the next question of what she is like, RBG is a really intelligent and dedicated woman. She was one of the few women to attend Harvard Law School in the 1950s, and throughout her life, she stopped at nothing to achieve her goals. During her time in the Supreme Court, she's been highly influential in many cases, from fighting discrimination against women in higher education to protecting the rights of disabled people. And, even when everyone else would turn against her, she wouldn't back down.

On a final note, as for why I'd like to meet her, I think she's always been a voice of progress and reason in American politics. She's a courageous woman, too, fighting cancer at the same time she fought for civil rights. So, she's an amazing person in a lot of ways, and I'd surely cherish the opportunity to meet her if I could.
